My parents had some strange rules when my sister and I were growing up. For example they never 11 us soda or juice. Our choice was water or iced tea 12 no sugar. My mom's 13 for it was that she didn't like kids who only drank sweet drinks, or worse, kids who didn't like 14! She wanted to teach us to like water or 15 unsweetened drinks that did not come in a bottle. We, on the other hand, wanted to 16 a coke when we ate out. Now I can make my own decision, but I 17 choose juice or soda. I don't 18 it. It's not because I don't like it. I'm just used to drinking water. Many people 19 to think that a kid needs juice. If the child can't get it, he or she will secretly buy this kind of drink elsewhere. I found this really 20, since I was raised 21 no juice or soda, and I didn't really 22 only having water. Now people 23 kids to make their own choice, 24 I grew up in a family where the children's opinions were seldom 25 for, and the parents made the final decision.
