

2022福建高三上学期人教版高中英语月考试卷

1.

The Spotlight(公众注意的中心) in Rio

Phelps puts spotlight on cupping (拔火罐) Olympic gold medalist Michael Phelps fed American swimmers to 8 gold medals in the 4×100-meter relay, but what grabbed media attention and led to stories and photos around the globe were the purple and red circles on his back.

Michael Phelps of the USA is seen with red cupping marks on his shoulder as he competes during the 2016 Rio Olympics men's 200m butterfly in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil , Aug 8,2016.

Chinese swimmer Fu Yuanhui goes viral

China's women's swimmer Fu Yuanhui has created a hit online not just by winning the bronze medal in the 100m backstroke competition, but also by her facial expressions during the post semi-final interview with China Central Television (CCTV) on Monday .

When asked whether she held back for the final, Fu replied, "No, I used my 'prehistorical power'". What she meant was that she had spared no efforts in the semi-final. Since then, the so-called "prehistorical power" has gone viral and become a new Internet meme.

Britain wins first Olympic diving gold in men's synchronized 3m springboard (男子双人 3米 跳板)

Britain's Jack Laugher and Chris Mears ended China's gold medal monopoly (垄断) over diving events at the Rio Olympics by winning the men's synchronized 3m springboard final On Wednesday, the country's first-ever Olympic gold medal in diving .

Laugher and Mears finished with a six-round total of 454.32 points, just 4.11 points ahead of silver medallists Mike Hixon and Sam Dorman of the USA at the Maria Lenk Aquatics Center. China's Cao Yuan and Qin Kai took the bronze with 443.70 points.

21. What attracted media attention with Phelps' winning the gold medal ?

- A. His great leadership.
- B. His scars on his back.
- C. The cupping marks on his back.
- D. His achievements he made in the men's 200m butterfly.

22. Which of the following is NOT the reason why Fu Yuanhui became the spotlight?

- A. Her devotion and determination to swimming.
- B. Her achievement in the 100m backstroke competition.
- C. Her facial expression during the post-semifinal interview.