"Come on, Cindy!" Darcy sounded so impatient. "We'll be late for class."
"Darcy, I can't find my _____. " I dropped my book bag to dig through my coat pockets. "My money was in it."
"Someone took it." Darcy said. As usual, she was quick to point away from the _____ side of things. "Oh. I'm sure I just misplaced it." I hoped. Even though we were best friends, Darcy and I were just so _____.
We rushed into class. Darcy _____ the news about the theft. By last period in gym class, I was _____ of having to say over and over again, "I'm sure I just left it at home."
After gym, we went into the locker room. I was changing _____. I heard a gasp from Darcy. I looked at her and found her face was white with _____. There, at her feet, was my wallet.
"It fell out of her locker!" Darcy pointed at Juanita, a "new girl" in our class. "She _____ it."
Everyone began to _____ Juanita at once.
"Darcy caught her red-handed."
"Report her!"
I looked over at Juanita. She picked up the wallet and held it out to me. Her hands were _____. "I found it in the parking lot. I was going to give it to you."
Darcy spit the words "I'm so sure!" at her.
"Really, it's true." Juanita's eyes began to fill with tears.
I _____ for my wallet. I didn't know what to think, _____ when I looked over at Darcy, her attitude made me sick inside. I looked at Juanita. She was scared but looked _____. I knew I held her _____ in my hands.
"I am so glad you found it," I smiled. "Thanks, Juanita."
The _____ around us broke.
"Good thing she found it," everyone but Darcy _____.
"If there is any money left in your wallet."
"Not now. Darcy!"
"You are so naive!"
It wasn't until others left there that I opened my wallet.
"It's all here." I couldn't help but feel _____. A folded piece of paper fluttered from my wallet. I opened it to see what it was.
"She just didn't have time to _____ it yet."
